

The background of the cover is a composite image. The top half shows a view of Earth from space, with a bright light source creating a lens flare effect. The bottom half features a blue and green DNA double helix structure. The text is overlaid on this background.

M.O.W. UNIVERSE

PRESENTS:

Cursed Heroes
The Ones Called Hacker

By: William Ollivierre

For fifty years they searched the universe, their hope slowly fading it seemed so hopeless. Even though they learned much about the new worlds it still was not enough but worst yet they grew weaker with each passing day. If they couldn't find something or someone to help them they would soon begin to die out, they were on their last generation and if they couldn't fix the damage done to their DNA their race would vanish from the universe altogether.

More and more left the research world to search for anything that could help them but most of them were captured, few managed to remain unnoticed as they went from world to world searching. Yet still they went out risking everything to search vastness of space.

As they searched, they came across myths written in ancient languages on many of the worlds they searched. This myth was of a race of beings thought to be cursed, with the worst curse in the universe, but they were powerful and kind. They were ancient and never mixed with any other race because of their curse, but no one knew where they were or where they came from.

These myths gave them hope if only a small amount it was enough to keep them searching. Like all myths, they knew there had to be some truth behind, they knew that this race was real for so many to have the myth but it was an old myth even before their time as great spies, but it was still something, and it was more than enough to get them to search much harder than before. In their search, they came across an artifact older than any they had found before and it was just what they needed. The artifact told of a blue planet, where a single man channeled God and was cursed, with the worst curse possible and it would follow all his descends for all time. It was the origins of the myth and this blue planet was well known as the home of the race of protectors. Their luck was finally looking up, they headed for the blue planet at the edge of the galaxy and the closer they got the more their luck seem to look up.

As they headed to the blue planet, they got news that that all of the members of this cursed race would be gather together but more importantly, one of them would be a child perfect for them to get a pure sample of DNA from. Still a mere child, he would be getting ready to leave his home world of Earth, on the celebration of his 13th birthday. If they could somehow get a sample of his DNA, they might have a chance in not only achieving their goal but also saving their race form extinction.

There was a great celebration for the young child, a great many came to see the boy off for he was the last one of his race to be born for more than five hundred years. Among the people who came to see him off were his brothers, they stood like a great army with weapons of great power in hand. As the boy stood looking out to his brothers, two of them walked forward, one carried only a small box in both hands, they spoke one after the next "I am Will 24 also known as Tech I provide all the weapons and technology to our race. I have two gifts for you." As finished speaking, he opened the small box in his hands, then the other spoke. "I am Will Ten Thousand, also known as Doctor. I am the doctor to our race whenever you need help, I will be there, even before you can call on me." He said with a calming voice as he turned to Will 24, and reached into the box that he held in his hands. He first took a test tube filled with a silver colored liquid from the box and held it in his left hand, then reached back into the box and removed a small glowing sphere.

As he held them in his hands Will 24 removed the cap from the test tube and placed it back in the box, he then turned his back and walked back into the crowd, as Will Ten Thousand turned and walked towards the boy. He handed the test tube to the boy with a smile and spoke, "Drink, these are your nannies made just for you and you alone, they will imprint on you and help you to develop your own special powers." The boy took the test tube from his hands and drank it, "Good now, this is your Star-core it will supply you with all the power you will ever need and link you to the rest of us, from this day forward you will be one of the mighty protectors, you will be a one of The Brothers Will." He placed the sphere in the boy's left hand and stepped back. "Now you must take the Star-core and merge it with your heart." The boy took the object and placed it on the upper right side of his chest over his heart; he closed his eyes and pushed it into his chest. The object sunk through the boy's skin and disappeared into his body, he opened his eyes as they glowed bright like the sun, the boy floated off the ground as his eyes glowed brighter, and a beam of light shot out of his mouth as if his insides were burning. Will Ten Thousand turned back to the crown as the boy fell to the ground on his knees he raised his hands and spoke. "He is now one of The Brothers Will" his voice echoed for everyone to hear, as the boy stood to his feet, the crowds cheers echoed through the air. The members of The Brothers Will raised their weapons to the skies and fired, lighting up the skies with the bright colors of their weapons.

"Your nannies will not be active for 24 hours, after which you may try to develop your powers, make sure they are what you want. After they are just the way, you want them to be you can imprint them into your nannies and your body. Good luck on your journey my young brother." Will Ten Thousand said to the boy then vanished, the boy smiled and nodded. Then turned and boarded the ship waiting behind him, to take him to his new home, on a nearby planet. There he would be thought many languages, and customs, so he may better understand the people he would one day protect.